100 METER DASH Bob Hayes

It was a real fine race and I'm glad to win. I tied up at about the 75-yard mark. But I just kept on going to the tape. I didn't let it bother me. I didn't try to explode from the start today, although I have been getting off the blocks pretty well in practice. I got a bit cold while waiting for the event and that's why I didn't give it all at the start. Who will be my toughest opponent in Tokyo? I think it will be Trenton Jackson here.

I took pretty much of a complete layoff since the National AAU meet. I didn't start serious work again until about two weeks ago back in Florida. There isn't anything official about it but I was timed by my coach in 9.1 for the 100 yards 10 days ago. Yes, I will definitely go in the 200 tomorrow. My condition is fine but it could be better.

#####

Trenton Jackson

It may sound strange but I think the reason I didn't beat Bob is because that's all I was thinking about, instead of concentrating on a good, solid performance. Just like every one else, I was real shook before the start. Although I won in the New York semis, I heard a rumor yesterday that I had to be among the first three to make the team. I got a pretty good start but Hayes was ahead of me.

Mel Pender

I don't know how far ahead of the fourth place man I was but I'll settle for any margin. I thought maybe I had a stride on Jerry Ashworth. I'm 26 years old and have been in the Army since getting out of high school. I'm considering going to college when I get ~~xxx~~ out. If I do, it will probably be here in California.

U.S. Final Olympic Trials
Sunday Sept. 13, 1964 - L.A. Coliseum

INTERVIEWS-- 200 meters

Paul Drayton

About halfway down the stretch I felt a slight pain in my lower left leg; but knowing it was the Olympic Trials, I kept myself going. When about four or five years out, I slightly stumbled and dove for the tape. I fell just beyond tape, but thought I had won it as I did breast the tape. My legs still hurt slightly; but I think and hope it will be all right.

I am pleasantly surprised that Stebbins did well. He could have been completely mentally crushed after his troubles in the 100 yesterday. But Rich is a real competitor and showed that by the way he came back today.

We expect that the real tough boys at Tokyo will include Livio Derutti and Sergio Ottolina of Italy, (Andrzej) Badenski of Poland, and Ed Roberts (Trinidad). (Armin) Hary is erratic in his performances at 200; but certainly also poses a threat.

Ottolina really bears watching. I beat him by a yard in Europe in 1962 and 1963; but he is young, ~~hardy~~ and very tough around the curve.

On basis of time and consistency Carr is probably the greatest in the world today. Carr is very strong. We are happy to be where we are right now; but hope that Hank will be with the team.

Rich Stebbins

It was a heartbreaking experience yesterday. But today was a new day.

From my position I had intended to be right up with Drayton, and had hoped to pass him on curve. Couldn't quite do that as it turned out; but I was most happy to be right behind him, and find myself ahead of Hayes and Carr at the end.

Never beat Hayes before. Once did edge out Carr in a 200 meter prelim in New York.

Was most happy to do well before the hometown crowd.

U.S. OLYMPIC FINALS

INTERVIEWS - 2

110-METER HIGH HURDLES

~~WILLIE~~ DAVENPORT, FIRST - Davenport ~~xxxx~~ hasn't gone to college. He went into Army following graduation from Holland High in Warren, Ohio, where he was 1962 State high hurdles champ with best time of 14.2. He's now been stationed in Germany for 18 months and will be discharged Oct. 21 2. He plans to go to Tennessee A & I. He qualified for these final trials by winning the inter-service highs in 13.9. This is only the second time he's run on West Coast, first time was at San Diego earlier this summer. "I was surprised to win. I thought the best I could do was third. I took the lead over the last 3 hurdles. I'm naturally very happy." I'm 6-1, 185 and also played football in the Army. "This is my all-time best time, my previous best was 13.8 at Randall's Island this summer."

#####

XHAYES JONES, SECOND - "I led over the first hurdle and then ran neck and neck with Davenport until the last 3 hurdles. I feel I ran a good race, but I'll have to go home and ponder what I did wrong. I believe we can score a sweep at Tokyo. Tokyo will be my last race. I appreciate everything the press had done and written about me and I hope to continue the association in a new role. I'm chairman of Women's Track in the state of Michigan and I'm looking forward to coaching the women. I feel there are lots of good coaches for the men athletes, but there is need for top coaching among the girls. Davenport ran a fine race but I'll have to wait until he goes to college to tell just how good he is."

#####

BLAINE LINDGREN, THIRD - "I jumped the gun the first time. I was quite nervous and made sure I wouldn't jump again. Unlike Jones, I wasn't at all satisfied with my performance, but I the main thing was to make the team. I felt I was a strong third, but I was too close to the hurdles. Willie Davenport is a good hurdler and will come along strong. He ran a fine race."

#####

400 meters--Mike Larrabee

I'm as surprised at the time as anybody. If you told me it was 46.2 I'd believe it. I was all shook up before the race but at the start I was completely relaxed. I took the easy route, just following Ollan Cassell's pace. I've been running with him all summer so I knew he would take me out all right. When he came to me on the inside I just went along and let him do the hard work. I ~~didn't~~ kept an eye on Ullis Williams until the final stretch but I didn't see him down the straightaway at all. My stomach doesn't give me as much trouble any more. The cure, according to my doctor, is just about three months without running. I guess you'd call it gastritis. I've been improving every year except for 1962 and 1963 when I was injured. Yes, if I keep running next year I think I'll get faster. I won't be 31 until Dec. 2. Yes, my wife Margaret will go to Tokyo with my mother. Mom made what she thought was an impossible promise last spring--that if I made the team she would take her to Tokyo. Now she has to pay off.

#####

Ullis Williams

This is my fastest time ever. I'm really happy about that because really I don't feel completely strong physically yet. My right leg doesn't bother me any more but my left one sometimes tenses up. Nothing serious but I just have complete confidence. It should be OK by Tokyo, though. My main trouble is getting properly warmed up. During the race I have to get out front because I'm not as fast as they are. We ought to have a real good ~~1600~~ 1600 meter relay team in Tokyo when we get Henry Carr in there.

(Williams' 45.0 is the ~~fastest~~ second fastest mark in the world to date this year. Cassell's 45.6 is the fourth fastest--With Larrabee's 45.4 in Europe this summer now the third top time.)

Ollan Cassell

I run the 400 out front because that's the only way I can do it and stay out there. I think a top runner must run about a second from his best 200 time and ~~stay~~ stick it out. At least that's best for me. It's to run that fast and finish only third but I'm satisfied. I had set my heart set on making it and I knew it would be rough.

U.S. Final Olympic Trials

INTERVIEWS --- 800 meters

Morgan Groth

Wasn't too sure about this race in trying to plan it. Wound up in good position all the way. Expected Siebert to start his kick earlier. Tried to glance over the shoulder and get an idea on Siebert's and Farrell positions around the last turn. This was my best race since a 1:46.4 in Jamaica during earlier summer. Felt very relaxed today.

Tom Farrell

Was boxed in a traffic jam during first lap. Tried to get thru a hole; but couldn't. After I got a couple of elbows, I swung outside and did get around in a contending spot. Coming off last turn, I felt that I would get in there well enough to qualify.

Groth & Farrell:

Top contenders in Tokyo will include Robbie Brightwell (Great Britain), Noel Carroll (Ireland), Bill Crothers (Canada). We hear that Snell is working out a lot cross-country over in Australia; but is apparently on schedule for whatever he plans to do.

Jerry Siebert

Apologized for not being at interview session. Had been fighting a bad cold all week, and felt very sick at finish.

NOTE: CORRECTION in Interview Quote on Paul Drayton, 200 meters: His comment in 3rd paragraph re about "Harry" refers to Harry Jerome (Canada), (not to Armin Hary)

INTERVIEWS--400m. HURDLES

Rex Cawley

Naturally I'm thrilled at setting a world record but that wasn't my prime objective today. It was just to win in any time required, or even just to be in the top three to make the team. Sure, I've thought of the possibility of running that fast, we all have. And I think I can run faster, too.

I thought it was a real tough race, more than really fast. I had a bit of trouble with two hurdles--the fifth and eighth. I got distracted some when I saw Cushman fall out of the corner of my eye. It took my mind off the job for a while. I felt real strong all the way. I had to be to recover from those mistakes.

Bill Hardin

I felt fine all the way, and I'm sure tickled to have made it. There was plenty of pressure all the way. We three know there are a lot of good men coming up in this event around the world but we are determined to score a sweep in Tokyo. At least we will put a lot of work into it.

Jay Luck

I feel fine now, although not completely recovered from that attack mononucleosis that hit me right after the New York semis. There is no trace of the illness itself but it takes a long time to recover. I've lacked condition mostly because I haven't been able to compete. My workouts came along real fine the past week.

INTERVIEWS--High Jump

Ed Caruthers

~~Ed~~

We stopped jumping at ~~in~~ 6-10 for several reasons. One was the tak-off area. It was impossible to jump any more. The worst I have ever jumped on. It broke up and ~~was~~ was soft and there were some holes. This is my biggest thrill, by far. They couldn't put in the red clay takoff as in the Russian meet because there wasn't time, I understand, because they had a football game recently. At least that's what we were told. This is by far the biggest thrill of my life. I trained real hard for this, especially the past few weeks. The last hard workout I had was Tuesday.

What Caruthers said about the tak-off goes for me, too. I'm starting to come around real well. I had an ankle injury right after the indoor season so I was held back in training. I've been jumping since I was ~~at~~ 15 and that's eight years ago. I have no intention of quitting right away, either. I have something special ahead of me now. In Rome four years ago I was only 19 and didn't really know what that kind of competition really means. I got the bronze medal and was satisfied with it, including the 7-1 height. But the public expected more. This time I am anxious to prove I have grown up.

Yes, I agree the takeoff area was anything but good. But I made the team so I'm satisfied. I plan to play basketball at Long Beach State as soon as I return. Eventually, I hope to play professional basketball.

INTERVIEWS--Discus

Jay Silvester

Nobody can say how glad I am to have won this competition. I only had one decent throw--my second. As you know, I've had a very bad season, and I can't explain why. I've been working hard as ever but it isn't until recently that my form and consistency has come around. I'm thankful for that because it's just the right time. I must have had some help from up there.

Yes, I know about that fellow Danek who recently broke Al Oerter's world record. I competed against him two years ago in Europe. I won that day and he was third. This guy Oerter is the hardest man in the world to defeat. I'll pick him over anybody.

Al Oerter

Honestly, I couldn't get up for this meet. There was every reason to be high but subconsciously I didn't have it. I've always advocated the team trials should be settled in just one meet. But don't get me wrong. I'll get real excited now that there is a big incentive. The Games mean everything. I know we will do good in Tokyo because we will have real fine competitors. I think it is the best ~~xxx~~ trio we have ever sent.

I didn't throw as well as I had hoped--I was thinking more like ~~15~~ 195 feet. But the main idea was to be in the top three so I'm happy. The wind held down the distance for all of us. It was a swirling wind that just couldn't be defined as coming from any certain direction.

SHOT PUT--Dallas Long

I can't explain why the marks were off today. Just one of those things, I guess. Certainly the competition was there. For me, maybe the tension of the Russian meet just wasn't there. I've been working out the same as before and nothing has gone wrong. I've been working hard, too. I am up to 270 pounds, about 10 more than the USSR meet. In between I had a two week vacation from school and stayed off my feet a lot. Maybe that's why the weight came on.

I'm an old man, making the team for the fourth time, but I was still mighty nervous out there. I started as a 10th grader in high school back in 1947. I know I've announced my retirement several times but I can't say this is definitely my last year of competition. If it is the last in the shot, I may just start a new career in the discus. I've always wanted to give it a real good try. I can't agree with those who would declare athletes with college scholarships professionals. They are no worse than those of the satellite countries who get long periods off from occupations to train for big meets.

This has been a real pleasant surprise for me. Especially when you consider that at the start of the season I was doing only around 57 feet. At that time I would have settled for a season best mark of 62. But now that I've improved so much I hope to keep on getting better before Tokyo.
