Cardinals relax over Oxy

By TOM STEINSTR

Stanford track coach Payton Jordan was nervous during Saturday's track meet with Occidental at Stanford Stadium.

Nervous?

Jordan has coached track for more than 30 years, including an Olympic team in 1968, but that experience didn't make him feel any better.

James Lofton, Alan Sheats and Terry Albritton helped provide the proper relaxant, however, as the Cards won 90-64 after being tied with five events remaining.

"This had me worried," Jordan said. "It was just what I thought it would be, a close meet. It was a good reunion."

The "reunion" was between Jordan and Occidental, the school Jordan coached for 10 years before coming to Stanford in 1957. The duel meet series between the schools was evened at 11-11 with the Cards' win.

Lofton, Sheats and Albritton helped assure that.

Lofton won three individual events—the long jump and the 100 and 200-meter dashes—and also ran a leg on the winning 400-meter relay team.

Albritton won the shot put with a heave of 64-4 in a meet many thought he was not even going to compete in. He was scheduled to compete in the San Jose Relays, but said tournament officials there did not contact him.

Sheats won the 400 meters and had a hand in two wins on the Cards' relay teams. Sheats runs the anchor leg in the 400-meter relay, an event in which he has predicted a finish among the top three in the Pacific-8 finals.

"USC and UCLA doesn't have anybody that's a real gunner," Sheats said. "They do have four almost unstoppable guys. What we try to do is have our first two men stay right with 'em and if Lofton and I are having good days, we'll catch 'em."
