Koudela, O'Connor CCS X-country choices

An inexperienced junior girl who considers hills enemies to be conquered, along with a veteran junior boy who thinks he's over the hump with regard to strategy, showed Wednesday that their Central Coast Section finals foes could be in a heap of trouble.

Monta Vista's Kathy Koudela and Carlmont's Kevin O'Connor were such solid varsity champs in the Region II finals, they've stamped themselves no worse than CCS co-title favorites.

Koudela awed the female field with a 17:50 clocking (one second off her best) for a 42-second victory on the hilly 2.95-mile Crystal Springs course over Woodside freshman Linda Van Housen, exceptional herself with a life best.

O'Connor, at eighth the top sophomore in last year's CCS varsity finals, copped the varsity title in 15:08, his life best and current season-topper over the Belmont trail.

Homestead, a CCS power in the late 1960s and enjoying a resurgence this season, swept all three divisions convincingly but not surprisingly on a perfect day for running.

Carlmont was runnerup in the varsity and girls races and third in the sophomore scramble.

Carlmont senior Ken Mellquist, third in 15:21, joined O'Connor in leading the Scots to their season-best team time, 79:49. But Homestead's overpowering depth beat Carlmont, 50-77.

The five-foot-five, 102-pound Koudela, who amazed even the boys with her obvious stamina, is in her first cross country campaign. She couldn't even make it out of her De Anza Athletic League finals in her first try at prep track last spring.
