A little togetherness drives Matadors, Falcons to titles

By DICK SPARRER

There's something to the togetherness approach in cross country.

And the Monta Vista and Saratoga squads are proof positive.

The Monta Vista boys and Saratoga girls each ran as packs at the Lynbrook Invitational on Oct. 26, and the result was a team championship for each one.

Monta Vista put five boys in the top nine to easily romp to a team title, and Saratoga packed five girls from sixth to 17th to win the girls' championship the same day.

Monta Vista's James Van Zorren was first overall, covering the 2.1-mile distance in 11:18, to lead the Matadors to the crown. Mike Marcinkowski was third in 11:37 with Derek Decicco fifth in 11:40.

Monta Vista ran up a low 25 points to 49 for Saratoga, 72 for host Lynbrook and 76 for Westmont.

Saratoga finished the girls' race with 46 points to finish first with Lynbrook second at 69, Westmont third at 74, and Prospect fourth at 78. Vanzorren was first in the boys' division with Saratoga's Hank Nothhaft a close second in 11:34.

Trevor Guina led the Westmont effort by finishing fourth in 11:38 and Aman Sirohi starred for Lynbrook with a sixth-place finish in 11:52. Henry Shu was eighth for the Vikings in 12:10.

In the girls' varsity division, Westmont's Lisa Renteria continued her torrid pace this season by running to an individual victory in 13:08. Teammate Jennifer Malott was seventh in 14:14.

Amie Wu of Lynbrook found the familiarity of her home course to her liking and romped to an individual second in 13:34. Victoria Quevedo finished 10th for the Vikings in 14:26.

Monta Vista's Amy Nguyen was third in 13:48 with Nicole Sebek of Prospect fourth in 13:57, then the Falcons took over.

Mackenzie Williams was sixth in 14:13 to lead Saratoga to the team title.

Lynbrook had strong comebacks by Sirohi and Sirohi in the Footbal

Lynbrook's Amie Wu ran second in the Lynbrook Invitational.

Invitational back on Oct. 20.

Sirohi was ninth in the boys' freshman race, romping over the 3.0-mile course in 18:11, and Wu was 15th in the girls' junior-senior race in 20:41. Both won T-shirts for their top-15 performances.

Shu clocked in at 18:27 in the boys' junior race with Nathaniel Jue leading the Lynbrook seniors in 19:02 and Jeff Stokes topping the sophomores in 19:04.
