

North Coast Section Cross -CC-> Country Rankings

Volume 9, Number 7

December 22, 1998

And a great time was had by all... the 1998 version Meet of Champions went off well, with a few surprises and a few disappointments. The stamina of the viewers was challenged by the number of races, but they were all worth it. Watching all those North Bay League athletes take section titles (is there something in that Santa Rosa water?) was amazing. The D-V sweep by the University girls was also an impressive sight.

Complete results are included at the end of this issue. Results are also available at www.RunningNetwork.com and also www.dvestat.com. These two sites provide remarkable coverage of the overall prep running scene as local as you want it and as national as you can possibly desire.

We will meet again here at Newhall Park in 1999, and then we're off to Ukiah for 2000. The plan calls for a rotation of 2 years in the East Bay, and every 3rd year in a northern location. (Yes, I know that even Ukiah is laughably south for those of you in the true north, but indulge me here.)

So, what do you think? As always, we want the best possible meet for our championship event, and I'd like to hear your ideas and pass them on. What do you think we can do to improve the meet? No detail too small, no opinion too extreme, no idea too radical to be considered. (examples: more toilets; nicer parking cops; large screen monitors to view runners at far end of course; et cetera)

And here they are: the final rankings. All bragging rights are based on this meet and the State Meet, so have at it.

Boys' Team Time Comparisons:

These time comparisons are fairly straightforward. The teams are ranked by time across all five races. The only deviation is where a team with a slower time beat another team on points. (* = state qualifier)

League Strength Comparisons: This is my annual folly to ascertain the comparative league strength. The MOC is scored as a single meet, with each league considered an individual team. Each school is then an individual, and the places are the rankings by time above. Teams (that is, leagues) take 3 to score, 5 to displace.

1.	Bay Valley Athletic League	16
2.	North Bay League	22
3.	East Bay Athletic League	25
4.	Alameda-Contra Costa Athletic League	41
5.	Humboldt-Del Norte League	63
6.	Hayward Area Athletic League	68 (32)
7.	Marin County Athletic League	68 (40)
8.	Tri-County Athletic League	83
9.	Bay Counties League	84 (55)
10.	Mission Valley Athletic League	84 (56)
11.	Sonoma County League	112
12.	Coastal Mountain Conference	139

This is an interesting analysis, in that the balance of power is not necessarily a matter of geography or of school size. The talent and the successful programs are spread throughout our extruded section. Also, it is interesting to note that we do not have any incomplete leagues. The CMC was able to come through with three teams at the MOC to demonstrate league intensity.

Overall, 88 different schools sent teams, with 526 runners finishing the five boys races.

League Strength: Again, the MOC is treated as a meet between leagues, with schools as individuals. 3 to score, 5 to displace:

1. North Bay League	22
2. Bay Valley Athletic League	23
3. East Bay Athletic League	28
4. Tri-County Athletic League	34
5. Hayward Area Athletic League	61
6. Bay Counties League	62
7. Mission Valley Athletic League	64
8. Humboldt-Dei Norte League	67
9. Alameda-Contra Costa Athletic League	80
10. Marin County Athletic League	85
11. Sonoma County League	126
12. Coastal Mountain Conference	147

This is a first: we have no incomplete leagues. The HDNL, the CMC and the SCL all checked in with at least 3 full teams at MOC. The close scores indicate balance through the section. We have a tremendous amount of talent in the NCS girls. With 82 different schools sending athletes, and 444 runners finishing races, we had excellent participation across the section at our championship event. This is an improvement over previous years, where not all schools saw fit to send teams.

ALL-NCS TEAMS: These squads are picked purely on the basis of time across all the races. Where possible (except for ties) the attempt was made to form three teams of seven runners each. Congratulations to each of these fine individuals and their quality efforts. (This year I'll try to follow through on the promised certificates.)

And now for a reasonably coherent, but thoroughly biased opinion:

It appears once again that we have on the books a rule that makes less and less sense to me as the seasons roll on. I just can't see the logic behind the uniform uniformity rule. Frankly, I just can't.

I and my teams have in the past been at variance with this rule, and I had a 4 x 400 team DQ'd at the NCS 2A meet at College Of Marin one year. I also have been on juries of appeal where our hands have been tied by the rule book, and have DQ'd quality teams on some piddling uniform non-conformity.

It used to make sense to me to plead the "large team" case. Castro Valley has always had large teams, and in track we have been edging between 120 and 140 total athletes. In this case it is very tough to put everyone in the same uniform at the same time. I don't. Relay teams get consideration, and I shove the historical apparel on the Frosh-Soph, but I have a hard time getting them all in similarity, much less uniformity.

I also used to plead the "manufacturer's conspiracy" case. No running gear manufacturer makes uniforms the same from year to year, so it is virtually impossible to match existing uniforms with new ones. The corporate sharks prey on us, and we order all new stuff, or so they hope.

Finally, it dawned on me that these are evasions of the existing rule. What is at fault is not me, or my program, or the clothing companies, but the rule itself. There is no rationale that I find pertinent that can explain to me why all my athletes must be wearing identical uniforms, undergarments, t-shirts, socks, sports bras, sweats, gloves, headbands.

The legalists are probably bristling right now. "Rules are rules." Oh yeah. Go ahead and enforce the uniform rule. Then explain to me why you haven't measured the pole vault pit to ensure that it is compliance with National Federation standards, and then explain to me how you have ensured that there are two spotters for every vault taken. Then go and inspect the hurdles. Tell me you have adjusted each one to the specified pullover force as detailed in the rule book. (Oh, by the way, there is a dress code for hurdles, too. No hurdles with non-white top bars allowed.) Check to see that there is a legal discus cage in place, and that non-competitors are behind it on each attempt. In other words, worry about the safety issue first. Then worry about behavior that gives an unfair advantage to a competitor, or impedes the ability of an athlete to compete. Uniform uniforms do not apply to any of the above criteria.

And what about those relays, hmmm? Well, that's simple. If person A in a lane passes the baton to person B in the same lane, I certainly hope that they are on the same team. If they can tell the difference, well then that's good enough for me. If they are wearing uniforms that are not identical, I fail to see how that a) gave them an advantage in the race or b) impeded other competitors or c) posed a safety risk to themselves or others.

The disciplinarians are about to bust a gut now. And just how can we enforce any sense of order, of decorum, of discipline? Why, then they'll be wearing just about anything and the whole meet will turn into a circus! And what's the problem with that? Aren't track & field, and cross country, supposed to be pleasant alternatives to the militaristic regimes of football, soccer, and other ball games of that ilk? Why not gussy up the meets with some apparel extravaganzas? If we are going to decry the death of our sport, I don't think that a little showmanship (i.e. flash and dash in uniforms) will hurt. In fact, it just may draw a few more participants and a few more spectators. And as for discipline, why that is instilled in workouts and demonstrated by the performances and behavior of the athletes. Last time I checked, clothing and behavior are two fairly different things. We have sportsmanship rules on the books that are designed to take care of athletes who swear, curse, derogate, taunt or otherwise act like jerks.

I don't think that having rules for criminal possession of non-matching uniforms makes sense. I'd like to see simply Rule 4, Section 3. Article 1a & 1b. Each competitor's uniform shall consist of a shoes b full-length jersey (singlet) and shorts issued by the school. I'd further like to see the elimination of Rule 4, Section 3, Article 1b 1 though 1b 8. This way the athlete gets a uniform from the school, and that's it. No fuss, no tiresome officials getting bowel constrictions over uniform rule violations, no unnecessary fretting about a ludicrous intrusion into a sport that has other things to worry about.

Let me know how you think.
